Tyler by men in the service since he became auditor, it has frequently been said that many officers find it embarrassing to explain why they are not entitled to certain payments, why such expenditures were made, and other features of navy work to a negro. They do not like it and not infrequently have wondered why a negro should have been placed in such a position when the naval expression when the naval expression is not a position when the naval expression when th sion when the naval service is a white man's service. In no other department of the government in all probability could there be found a less congenial place for both Tyler and for the offi-cers who find it necessary from time to time to come before him in explain-ring items in their accounts.

Personally, Tyler is probably as good as any other negro, but the fact that there is now a new administration has led a good many people to wonder what will be done. The place is a comparatively easy one to fill, and has a good salary attached.
